

The little scientist

1. Once upon a time, there was a little scientist...

2. Yes you are! Because during your stay at the hospital...

3. ...you are giving biological samples that are stored in a freezer and will travel very far away!

6. This information is very important to find new drugs to cure the disease!

4. Once your samples arrive at the laboratory, they will meet other samples from other little scientist like you!

5. When they are together, they give information that only other scientists can read

• Illustration: C. Armengol
• Translation: B. Morland

Thank you little scientist for your big contribution to science!